Practice Areas

- Workers' compensation
- Social Security disability matters

Queena Baumbach concentrates her practice in fighting for Claimant's rights in workers' compensation and Social Security Disability matters. Queena is an active trial lawyer and has many years of experience representing clients throughout Pennsylvania. She handles cases from the initial filing of a claim through the appellate process and settlement.

Queena started her career representing underprivileged clients at the Widener Law School Civil Law Clinic on a pro bono basis. She then spent several years as an associate working for a Claimant's law firm. She has had a workers' compensation case summary published by the Pennsylvania Bar Association's Pennsylvania Administrative Law Journal. She has also lectured statewide on the topic of workers' compensation.
